When should accessor methods be used?

1. A method to return an object in terms of an interface that the object implements
2. Only use accessor with simple logic to prevent hidden bug
3. It is not recommended to query accessor data to another table, as it also causes performance problems